"...the program is a wonderful opportunity for women law students and practitioners to forge valuable networks, share ideas and enjoy professional companionship. I encourage students and practitioners alike to become involved in the program and reap the mutual benefits of interaction between law students and experienced women lawyers."

- Commissioner Neave AO

Justice Zammit began her career as a secondary school teacher before returning to the University of Melbourne to study law where she graduated with first class honours winning the Anna Brennan Memorial Prize and the Joan Rosanove QC Memorial Prize.

Justice Zammit has extensive legal experience specialising in health law, insurance law and personal injuries litigation. She was a volunteer at the Broadmeadows Legal Service and was also a voluntary legal adviser for the Big Issue.
