

in conjunction with

'The changing face of law – a global perspective'

Distinguished Professor Frank Wu, renowned academic and author

12:45pm for 1:00pm start Friday 18th August 2017

King & Wood Mallesons, Level 50, Bourke Place, 600 Bourke St, Melbourne

Proudly hosted by

KING & WOOD MALLESONS

Registration

Members only & invited guest No cost. Bookings essential

Cost Free for VWL members

RSVP by 9th August 2017:

www.vwl.asn.au/events

Frank H. Wu, author, law professor, former law school dean, and head of a prestigious non-profit Chinese American membership organization the Committee of 100, has written widely about reform of legal education and disruption within the profession.

Distinguished Professor Wu will:

- talk about opportunities for global law firms in an increasingly international and transnational practice environment, with an ascendant Asia embracing rule of law;
- consider changes in the structure of the leading law firms, as competition compels the development of new models for delivery of professional services; and
- consider how best to include people of diverse backgrounds to achieve better client services and realize ideals of a democratic society.